Christopher Simon

Was born March 15, 1846, at Butler, Ind. He settled in Noble county, Ind., in December, 1873; he was married Jan. 1, 1868, at Swan, Ind., to Lois Broughton, born Sept. 8, 1849, in Noble county, Ind. Their children are Clara, Hal, Clarence, Curtis, Florence, Maud, Pearl and Jennie. The parents of Mr. and Mrs. Simon are John P. and Louisa (Fair) Simon, Samuel and Almira (Cummings) Broughton, Mr. Simon only being deceased. Biography of Charles R. Reed, pages 447/448/449/450.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company,
Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

A career marked by earnest and indefatigable application has been that of his substantial and honored citizen of Waterloo, where he has maintained a residence for many years, during all of which time his life has been an open book, known and read by his fellowmen. He was a valiant soldier of the Civil war, where his fidelity was of the type which has characterized his actions in all their relations and gained for him the confidence and esteem of the public and unbounded respect of all with whom he has been brought into contact. Charles R. Reed, who, after a life of strenuous activity, is now retired and residing in his pleasant home in Waterloo, Indiana, was born in Butler township, DeKalb county, on October 13, 1842, the son of Russell and Marilla (Holbrook) Reed. Russell Reed was born probably in Vermont, and in New York state married Marilla Holbrook, who was born in Massachusetts, the daughter of Lyman Holbrook. Lyman Holbrook brought his family to DeKalb county from Jefferson county, New York, whither they had come from Massachusetts, and in 1834 they settled in the southwestern part of Butler township, and here he spent his later life with the exception of five years, when he lived in Iowa. His death occurred in 1864 and his wife survived him many years, her death occurring in 1893, both being buried on the Huntertown cemetery. Charles R. Reed was reared to maturity in Butler township, and in August, 1862, he enlisted in Company C, Eighty-eighth Regiment, Indiana Volunteer Infantry, which was assigned to the Army of the Cumberland. Mr. Reed enlisted as a private but was soon promoted to the rank of corporal. On September 20, 1863, he was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga and was confined in the hospital for five months. The day after he was wounded he was captured by the enemy, but ten days later was paroled. In the winter of 1864-5 he was detailed to go to Chattanooga and thence to Charleston, Tennessee, to take charge of a company of men made up from different regiments. He participated in the battles of Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, and the battles, skirmishes and marches incident to the campaign leading up to Atlanta, and nearly all the other engagements of his regiment until the close of the war, receiving his honorable discharge on June 7, 1865, at Washington, D. C. A brother of his, Oliver Reed, died in the service at Jeffersonville, Indiana, in 1864. Before the war Mr. Reed had received his education in the district schools and had also attended the seminary at Huntertown, and after the war he attended the free school at Fort Wayne, completing here the education which had been interrupted by the war. He engaged in teaching school with considerable success in Allen, Noble and DeKalb counties, and also taught vocal music for twenty years, both in ordinary classes and in normal classes in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana, and in the public schools of Waterloo, resigning his position in the latter schools in 1911, Although he was requested by the board to continue his labors there. During the same time that he was teaching school Mr. Reed also supervised the operation of his farm, in which he met with good success. He is now retired from active pursuits and is living quietly in his pleasant and attractive home in Waterloo. In 1868 Mr. Reed was married in Swan township, Noble county, Indiana, to Mary P. Perry, who was born and reared there, a daughter of Oliver and May (Francis) Perry. To this union was born one child, Clyde V., who is telegrapher operator at Waterloo for the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, his wife being ticket agent. He married Ella Goodwin, the daughter of Leander Goodwin, and they have one son, Lynn Goodwin Reed. In the year that Mr. Reed moved from Noble county to Waterloo, 1871, his first wife died, she passing away on September 17th, and on March 16, 1876, he married Ella S. Smith, who was born in Franklin township, this county, the daughter of Henry and Mary Jane (Shaneholt) Smith. Her father, who was born in Ohio, was a son of Archibald and Mary (Thompson) Smith. The former a native of Teregles, Scotland, born on December 127, 1788, the latter born in Cumberland county, England, on October 29, 1794. These parents were married in Liverpool, England, on October 11, 1818, and immediately started for America, being ten weeks on the ocean. They lived in New York a short time. Then moved to Stark and Medina counties, Ohio, where they followed farming pursuits until 1841, when they came to DeKalb county, Indiana, locating near Hamilton in Franklin township, where Archibald Smith bought five hundred acres of land. Here his death occurred in 1861 and his wife died in 1876. Their son, Henry, married Mary Jane Shaneholt, in Stark county, Ohio, and came here in 1841. His wife died when their daughter, Ella S., was a child only three months old, and Henry Smith's sister, Margaret, became the foster mother of the little one and reared her to womanhood. After Ella was grown to maturity and married to Mr. Reed she always thought Aunt Margaret as a child would a mother. Miss Margaret Smith lived with her parents until after their death, and then she and her brother, Archibald, lived in Waterloo for some years. In 1888 she became the wife of Jacob I. Frazer, who died in 1898, and now she resides in Waterloo. She was born near Massillon, Stark county, Ohio, on September 24, 1831, and is now eighty-two years old. Mr. Reed now makes his home with her. Her life has been one of quiet self-sacrifice, performing many kind deeds for others, many of whom remember her with gratitude. Her training, example and instruction so impressed itself on Mrs. Reed that the latter became a devoted wife and mother, rearing her children to honored and respected womanhood. To Mr. and Mrs. Reed were born the following children: Daisy A., the wife of Edmund Brown, of Urbana, Ohio; Mary Blanch is the wife of Frank Spiker, of Massillon, Ohio, and they have one son, Harold R.; Mabel Margaret is the wife of Lawrence Eugene Pontius, a photographer at Columbia City, Indiana. the mother of these children died on January 19, 1894. She was a devoted and faithful member of the Presbyterian church and was beloved by all who knew her. Charles R. Reed has led an active and strenuous life in some respects and has at all times enjoyed the absolute confidence of all who knew him. Aside from the interests already mentioned he was at one time a partner in a flour and feed exchange and also served as United States Express

Company's agent at Waterloo. He was twice elected justice of the peace, serving eight years altogether and the discharge of his duties was characterized by a sense of justice and discrimination that earned the commendation of all familiar with the proceedings of his court. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, in which he is an elder, and also a devoted member of the Grand Army of the Republic, which he served as commander three full terms, filled out another term by appointment and is now commander of the post. His integrity of principle and purity of motive are unquestioned and being a man of splendid disposition he is consequently popular in all the circles in which he moves, and is eminently deserving of representation among the enterprising and progressive citizens of his community.

Biography of Franklin P. Myers, pages 915/916/917/918.
History of DeKalb County, Indiana; B. F. Bowen & Company,
Inc., Indianapolis, 1914.

The following is the sketch of a plain honest man of affairs, who by correct methods and a strict regard for the interests of his patrons has made his influence felt in DeKalb county and won for himself distinctive prestige in the agricultural circles of Smithfield township. He would be the last man to sit for romance or become the subject of fancy sketches, nevertheless his life presents much that is interesting and valuable and may be studied with profit by the young, whose careers are yet to be achieved. He is one of those whose integrity and strength of character must force them into an admirable notoriety which they modestly never seek, who command the respect of their contemporaries and their posterity and leave the impress of their individuality deeply stamped upon the community. Franklin P. Myers is a native of the county in which he lives, having been born in Smithfield township on March 9, 1858, and is the son of Jacob and Barbara (Snyder) Myers. Jacob Myers was born in Germany, the son of Frederick and Barbara Myers, who brought their family to this country when Jacob was but an infant. They settled first in Seneca county, Ohio, where Jacob was reared to manhood and there he married Mollie Talbert, to which union were born six children; of these Sydney and Joe are deceased; Henry lives in Michigan; Eliza Ann lives near Medon, Michigan; Sarah Jane is deceased and Barbara Ellen lives at Burr Oak, Michigan. The mother of these children died in Ohio and Jacob Myers moved to Wood county, that state, where he married Barbara Snyder, who was born in Pennsylvania, of Dutch parentage, and who was brought to the state of Ohio by her parents. About 1850, or possibly a little earlier, Jacob Myers came to DeKalb county on horseback and bought a farm of eight acres located northwest of Hudson in the southwestern part of Steuben county, the farm being at that time but little improved. Later he brought his family to that farm and some time during the fifties he bought a farm on one hundred and twelve acres lying three miles south of Hudson in Smithfield township, DeKalb county, to which place he moved and subsequently bought other lands in that neighborhood until he became the owner of three hundred and sixty acres. He was a diligent worker, knowing no such word as idleness, and by his indefatigable efforts brought his farm to a fine standard of improvement and cultivation, much of the clearing being done by moonlight. He would lay the bottom rails of a line of fence during the day in order to get the line and would finish the fence by night. Much of his land was bought cheap, and that he sold off the timber, using good judgment and wise discrimination in the management of his affairs and thus became well-to-do, honestly earning the prosperity which he later enjoyed. To this union with Barbara Snyder were born the following children: Susan, Franklin P., John, Jesse, Ida, Amos, George, Maggie, Amanda, and Lovina, who died in infancy. Prior to her marriage to Mr. Myers, the mother of these children had been married to a Mr. Hardman. Jacob Myers spent the remainder of his life in Smithfield township, where his death occurred about 1883, and he was survived a number of years by his widow, whose death occurred in 1894. Franklin P. Myers was reared on the home farm, securing his education in the schools of the locality and when about sixteen years of age moved to a farm which his father had bought just east of his first purchase, and there the subject lived until his marriage in 1882. He then went to farming on eighty acres of land owned by his father in Fairfield township, where he remained four years, at the end of which period he came to Smithfield township and bought thirty-eight acres of land from his father-in-law, to which he subsequently added twenty-six acres adjoining in section 19. To the cultivation of this land he has devoted himself and has achieved success as the result of his close application to his own affairs and sound judgment and good common sense exercised in management of the place. He has carried on a general line of farming, raising all the crops common to this locality and also gave some attention to live stock. His pleasant and attractive residence, substantial and well-arranged barn, and the well-kept condition of the farm indicated him to be a man of good taste and who understands the business to which he is applying himself. On November 30, 1882, Mr. Myers married Delilah Stofer, who was born in Columbiana county, Ohio, on February 12, 1858, the daughter of Eli Stofer, by who she was brought to Fairfield township, this county, in 1865. To Mr. and Mrs. Myers were born three children: Clark Wilson, born July 5, 1885; Glenn Lloyd, born September 18, 1889; Maydie Pearl, born May 7, 1895. On April 2, 1908, Clark Myers married Orpha McEndarfer, daughter of Byron McEndarfer, and they have a daughter, Iris. On February 18, 1912, Glenn married Alta Urey, the daughter of John Urey, and they live in Fairfield township on the Urey farm; they have one son. Wilson Wayne Myers. Mr. Myers has not been selfish in his life, but has given a due share of his attention to the interests of the community with which he has been identified for so many years, giving his support at all times to every movement which has promised to be of material benefit to the community. He stands for the highest standard of citizenship, and in this he has set a worthy example, for this life has been such as to earn the commendation of all who know him. Rev. Eli Stofer, father of Mrs. Myers, was born on April 21, 1836, in Columbiana county, Ohio, the son of Samuel and Mary Anne (Wolfe) Stofer, the father a native of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, and the mother of Fayette county, that state. Eli Stofer was reared on a farm in Columbiana county, Ohio, and at the age of twenty, in 1856, was there married to Elizabeth Weaver, who was born in Columbiana county, the daughter of Isaac and Catherine (Shively) Weaver. Her death occurred on January 18, 1914. Isaac Weaver was a native of Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania. In 1864 Mr. Stofer moved to DeKalb county, Indiana, settling in Fairfield township, and in 1874 moved to the southwest quarter of section 19, in Smithfield township, where he owned fifty-four acres of land, practically all he can care for in this later years, being now seventy-eight years old. About a year after his marriage Mr. Stofer united with the Mennonite church, his wife joining that society two years later. Her parents had reared her in the Dunkard church and here change to the Mennonite church was entirely voluntary on her part. About four years after coming to Indiana, he helped organize a Mennonite church near his home, and about 1870 he was ordained a minister in that denomination, with which he has been identified very closely ever since. To Rev. and Mrs. Stofer were born seven children: Oliver lives near Garrett and has two children by his first wife, Warren and Grace, and three by his second marriage, Goldie, Orpha and Thurlow. His second wife died, about 1897; Delilah Stofer became the wife of F. P. Myers, the immediate subject of this sketch; Amanda J., widow of Jacob Kalb, lives at Ashley and has two children, Myrtle and Shirley; Edwin O. died at Warsaw, Indiana, in 1907, leaving a widow and two children, Ruth and Paul; John, who is employed in the railroad shops at El Paso, Texas, married Della Spiegelmeier, and they have two children living and one dead; Mary Catherine is the wife of William Kessler, who lives across in Fairfield township about a mile west of her father's homestead; Ella became the wife of Alva Brand, and after his death she married Edward Zerbragg, and they live in Ashley. Rev. and Mrs. Stofer have been married fifty-eight years, and the almost six decades of their union have been years of unalloyed happiness, their faces today showing the peaceful life they have led, for there is a serenity pictured there which is born of a sound faith in the Infinite. On the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, their children and children's children visited them in honor of their father and ancestor whose character has been such as to reflect honor on the family. They have six children living, fourteen grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. They are indeed a worthy old couple and this volume would be incomplete without this specific reference to them.

The Pedigree Resource File is a new lineage linked database of records available on compact disc containing family history records submitted by individuals through FamilySearch Internet Genealogy Service. Family information is organized in family groups and pedigrees and includes submitted notes and sources. Many charts and reports can be printed from this data. Each disc contains about 1.1 million names. With the publication of every five discs, a master index for those discs will be published and packaged with that set of discs. With the publication of every 25 discs, a master index for those discs will also be published and packaged with that volume of discs. Discs may be purchased as sets or volumes.

!NOTES: In 1834, Amos and Nancy started moving their family westward, first to Clark County, Ohio and then to Champaign County, Ohio. It was in Champaign County where, shortly after the birth of his youngest child, Amos lost his life on August 17, 1838. Despite the loss of their patron, Amos Broughton's family continued their trek, finally settling in Swan Township, Noble County, Indiana in the fall of 1838. According to the book, Goodspeed's History of Noble County, the family had little money and no food, but all went to work - receiving provisions of any kind as pay - and managed to weather the winter. It would be nearly thirty years before Amos' widow, Nancy, would remarry which she did to Joseph Cummings on December 6, 1864. Her second marriage would prove to be brief when just three years later Cummings died. Widowed for a second time, Nancy would live into her 80's, passing away peacefully in her sleep in 1876. She's buried beside her daughter, Annue, at Swan Cemetery. Her obituary is quoted as follows:

"Mrs. Nancy Cummings of Swan Township died Feb. 27th, 1876, at the advanced age of 81 years. She was born in the State of New York and emigrated thence to Ohio, where she lived several years, and there she buried her first husband, Mr. Broughton. She came to Noble County in 1836, and settled in the township where she died. She was the mother of William and Samuel Broughton, who reside among us, and who are justly held in high esteem among their fellow citizens, and who owe their success in life to the wise counsel of their mother, for being left fatherless in their childhood their training depended upon the mother. She was the mother of ten children, of whom eight are living. She was a member of the M. E. church from early youth until her death, and when she became aware that the time for her departure was at hand, her mind was tranquil and serene, and with full assurance of unending bliss above, she fell asleep to wake amid the glories of heaven."

METEA Potawatomi Chief

by John Martin Smith
DeKalb County Historian

What is now DeKalb County was occupied by two principal Indian tribes that were known to civilized man — the Miami and the Potawatomi. Generally, the Miami were to the south and west of DeKalb County, the Potawatomi were north and west, and the land that is now DeKalb County was a buffer zone between the two. There were probably no large or permanent Indian villages located in DeKalb County, but there were several lesser village sites mostly along Cedar Creek and the St. Joseph River.

Little is known of specific Indians in the area except for Metea, who is pictured on the cover of this book. His village was located at the point where Cedar Creek empties into the St. Joseph River at the village now known as Cedarville on SR 1 in northeastern Allen County.

Cedar Creek rises at Indian Lake in Fairfield Township and flows through the county as a major drainage tributary. The St. Joseph River is one of the three major rivers which converge at Fort Wayne. Metea's village was known as Muskawasepeotan, The town of the old red wood creek.

Metea was a Potawatomi Chief whose name meant "kiss me." He participated in the massacre at Chicago during the War of 1812. He later encountered General William Henry Harrison near Fort Wayne. He was a prominent speaker at the Council of Chicago in 1821 and at the Treaty of the Wabash in 1826. He died in 1827 at Fort Wayne.

General Tipton personally interviewed Metea in 1823 and described him as follows:

"Metea appears to be a man of about forty or forty-five years of age. He is a full-blooded Pottawatimie; his stature is about six feet; he has a forbidding aspect, by no means deficient in dignity. His features are strongly marked, and expressive of a haughty and tyrannical disposition; his complexion is dark. Like most of the Pottawatimies whom we met with, he is characterized by a low aquiline and well shaped nose. His eyes are small, elongated, and black; they are not set widely apart. His forehead is low and receding; the facial angle amounts to about eighty. His hair is black, and indicates a slight tendency to curl. His cheek bones are remarkably high and prominent, even for those of an Indian; they are not, however, angular, but present very distinctly the rounded appearance which distinguishes the aboriginal American from the Asiatic. His mouth is large, the upper lip prominent. There is something unpleasant in his looks, owing to his opening one of his eyes wider than the other, and to a scar which he has upon the wing of his nostril. On first inspection his countenance would be considered as expressive of defiance and impetuous daring, but upon closer scrutiny it is found rather to announce obstinate constancy of purpose and sullen fortitude. We behold in him all the characteristics of the Indian warrior to perfection. If ever an expression of pity or of the kinder affections belonged to his countenance, it has been driven away by the scenes of blood shed and cruelty through which he has passed. His dress was old and somewhat dirty, but appeared to have been arranged upon his person with no small degree of care. It consisted of leather leggings, buttoned on the outside, a breechcloth of blue broadcloth, and a short chequered shirt over it; the whole was covered with a blanket, which was secured round his waist by a belt, and hung not ungracefully from his shoulders, generally concealing his right arm, which is rendered useless and somewhat withered from a wound received during the late war, when he attacked, with a small party of Indians, the force that was advancing to the relief of Fort Wayne. His face was carefully painted with vermilion round his left eye. Four feathers, colored without taste, hung behind, secured to a string which was tied to a lock of his hair."

The likeness on the cover of this book is from "Indians of North America" by McKenney and Hall. The artist, a Mr. Seymour, painted Metea from life. The image was then engraved for printing. There after, the printed black on white image was hand colored.

The park west of Cedarville on SR1 is named for Chief Metea.

World War I vets to be honored

By LEE SAUER

ST. JOE — A service flag with nine blue stars and one gold star hung in the sanctuary of the Coburn Corners Church of Christ, on State Road 101 in Concord Township, right after World War I.

Each star represented a congregation member who had gone to war. Nine men returned to their families. One returned to burial in Alton Cemetery.

On Sunday at 11:30 a.m., the congregation of Coburn Corners will join in its annual Decoration Day service, forming a parade to the burial grounds named after Benjamin Alton, the first minister in DeKalb County. The service flag will once again be displayed, honoring two surviving veterans of the war to end all wars.

William Quance of Auburn served his country without leaving it. The 88-year-old downplays his war service, which consisted of drilling with other college students in Springfield, Ohio. The year was 1918.

"We were issued uniforms. The boys' dormitory was converted to barracks," Quance remembered.

There was no actual fighting, but still, there were casualties. "That was the year the influenza was so bad," said Quance. He recalled that the main building on the college campus was used as a hospital. The nurse assigned by the government to the makeshift hospital died, as did several of Quance's classmates.

Still, the country's attention was on the young men dying overseas. "We were given information by the staff on the status of the war," said Quance.

Faye Wilmot
Dodged German shells

It wasn't long before good news arrived. The Armistice had been signed. "We were elated," remembered Quance. "We had to march all over Springfield, it seems."

WWI veteran Faye Wilmot's war experience was exciting from the very beginning.

"We were supposed to land in Liverpool (England), but we ran into a mess of submarines and landed in Brest, France," remembered the soon-to-be 91-year-old Auburn resident. Wilmot said he doesn't remember being nervous, even though the German submarines were shooting at the ship. "We had pretty good gunnery," he said, "if they saw a periscope come up, they let go (with gunfire). They hit several of them." Still, the troops stood on deck for 12 hours, just in case the ship was hit.

Wilmot had been trained as an engineer and his company was sent to France to build bridges. But, when they arrived, they spent most of their 33 days on the front building barbed wire entanglements.

This was the era of trench warfare. Wilmot said the American and German trenches might be miles apart, or within eyesight of each other. The trenches themselves represented that army's front line. In between was no man's land.

At night, the corps of engineers would sneak one mile, maybe two, into no man's land to put up its wire barriers. Then, with the daylight, they would sneak back to their front line to sleep during the day.

Wilmot put his hands up about 24 inches apart to show the width of the trenches.

Yes, he saw airplanes, he said. He remembered when a group of about 150 dogfighters flew overhead.

The Germans fired guns from three miles away towards the front. The Americans called the shells "Whizz Bangers," said Wilmot, "because you could hear them coming. I reached over and picked up shrapnel a lot of times after it landed close to me. They could kill us just as quickly then with the equipment they had, as they can now."

Food for the troops was prepared some ways behind the front line and brought forward. The quality wasn't something the troops spent time complaining about, according to Wilmot. Their attitude was, "you had to live with it," he said. Often, the soldiers had to settle for a cold meal.

But on the trip home, in February of 1919, Company A, Fifth Regiment of Engineers was treated much better.

Wilmot's company was selected as the honor guard for the George Washington, the luxury liner that brought President Woodrow Wilson back from his second trip to Europe. "I was probably as close to him as we are, several times," Wilmot told a reporter who was just four feet away. The soldier remembers his commander-in-chief as tall and dignified. "He spoke to everyone he met. I always thought he was a pretty nice guy," said Wilmot.

Wilmot's wife of two years, Lamonna, a Republican, claims his partiality to the 28th president comes from his being a Democrat.

Wilmot has a box of picture post cards from his army days. It includes a well-thumbed copy of a mailing list for the fifth regiment. The post cards are numbered and in the back of the booklet is a printed listing of the photo subjects.

Several of the photos have penned-in marks pointing to a 5-foot-11, 200-pound engineer and soldier. Today that same soldier can recite from memory his dog-tag I.D. number: 467580.

is a letter from Audrey Colburn. It tells Faye to consider each encircled dot a kiss. When Wilmo returned, Colburn became his wife. She died in 1983.

Wilmot said he had respect for war as a young man, but now that he's older he has changed his mind. "They don't gain anything," he said.

Of his experiences in the big war, Wilmot is also philosophical. He said, "I wouldn't take a million dollars for them and I wouldn't give a dollar for another one."
